ANGRY BIRDS

Graphic Guidelines 2011

Welcome to Angry Birds!

In a remarkably short period of time, Angry Birds has made its mark on the global popular culture landscape. However, our work has only begun. Our mission is to redefine modern family entertainment and maintain a constant relevance that transcends trends, technology and target audiences.

How do we intend to reach our goals? We believe in structured, long-term relationships with our partners. We foster our partnerships with open communication. We always maintain a clear dialogue in order to ensure the best possible collaboration in all markets and situations.

In 20 years' time, people won't believe this ubiquitous brand started as a game.

Angry Birds is here to stay. We are building not only an entertainment brand, but a long-lasting cultural phenomenon. Everything associated with Angry Birds must communicate this.

For the fans, Angry Birds means fun, quality and value for money, presented in an attractive and accessible form. Angry Birds fans want relevant products and services that are in line with the brand and involved with the story and characters. coherent, growing offering on all markets

Our top priority is building and fostering long-term relationship with Angry Birds fans.

Nurturing our Birds and our brand is of great importance for us. This means we will participate in the design process with all of our partners. We stress attention to detail, and we will scrutinize on the products and processes until all parties are satisfied with the outcome.

By no means are we overly protective of our property, or dismissive towards new ideas and prospects. We simply have a vision of where we want to be, and we want to share that vision and build on it with our partners. This way we will be able to build delightful, entertaining and surprising experiences around Angry Birds, while creating prosperous and long-term business.

We're proud of Angry Birds, and we want our fans and partners alike to also share this sense of pride.

What sets Angry Birds apart from other brands? We whole-heartedly believe in play. To play is to live life fully, curiously and sometimes mischievously, tapping our inner child's desire to break stuff from time to time. Playing can make us feel a range of emotions. It can cure boredom, stress and help us forget our troubles. But it can also make us feel irritated and annoyed in the most pleasant way possible.

Play is powerful stuff and with Angry Birds, we should never lose our desire to play.

1.0 LOGOTYPE

The Angry Birds logo originated in the Angry Birds game, and it is used for all Angry Birds products and services. For all products, the Angry Birds logo must be emphasized before any product titles, or other, sub-brand logos. Consistent use of the Angry Birds logo is essential. Original Angry Birds products must be easily identifiable, and immediately associated with the Angry Birds brand.

Follow the guidelines in this chapter regarding color and positioning, and you will be creating some squawking great Angry Birds branding in no time!

1.2 LOGOTYPE FREE SPACE

The Angry Birds logo should always pop from the background with a squawk! Leave ample free space for the logo to really shine through from the background and other visual traffic. The character S from the word Birds in the logo is a good measurement of minimum free space around the logo.

1.3 LOGOTYPE & REGISTERED TRADEMARK

Always apply the registered trademark symbols where necessary. The symbols should follow the color scheme of the logo. Use a black symbol for the outlined logo.

1.4 LOGOTYPE SIZES

When scaling the logotype, the Angry Birds logo should be used in 2 millimeter increments, from 4 mm to 18 mm. Notice that for logo sizes from 4mm to 8mm, the registered trademark symbols may become unreadable, and they should be omitted. The trademark declarations need to be added in another form.

1.6 LOGOTYPE PLACEMENT

All Angry Birds product branding should communicate a coherent and consistent visual identity. A simple thing as logotype placement plays a big role in this. When the visual design of your product is in line with all Angry Birds branding, the Angry Birds fans can expect the same consistent high quality from your products.

Placement on packages

Whenever possible, the logo should be used in the center of the packaging. Remember the safe area of clear space around the logo. If center placement is not possible for some reason, use the logo on the left upper or lower corner.

Placement on merchandiser

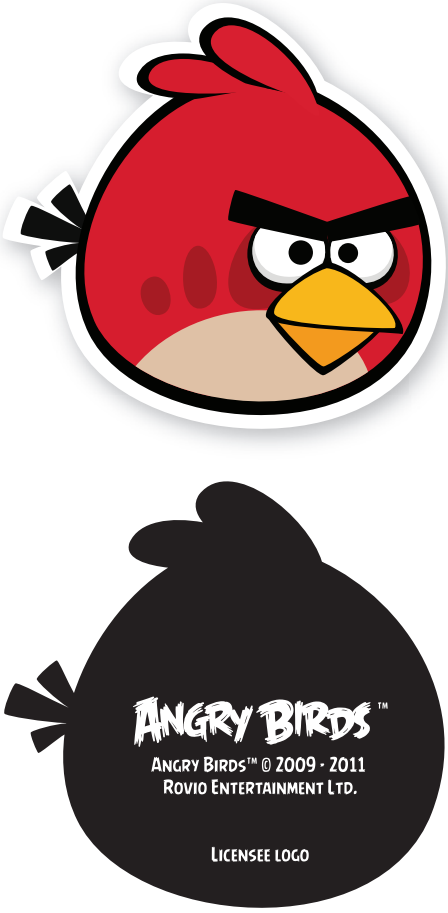

Whenever possible, the logo should be used like a signature, underlining that the product and design in question are original, high quality Angry Birds merchandise.

The logo's size is decided according to the size of the margin of the document.

Application	Application measurements	Logotype size/Grid margin
70 x 100 poster	700 x 1000 mm	37 mm / 37 mm
50 x 70 poster	500 x 700 mm	32 mm / 32 mm

2. COLORS & BACKGROUNDS

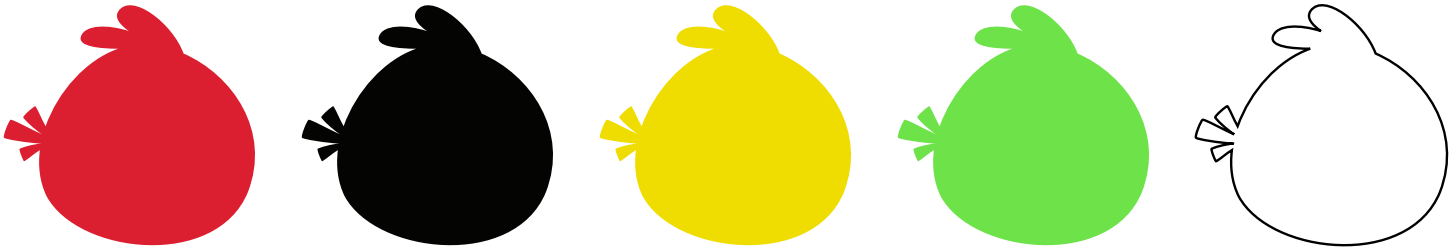

This Chapter describes the color schemes used for each character and different background themes. It is extremely important to use the listed colors for all characters and related visual elements. What color is the speeding bird? Correct, Yellow. Which bird splits in to three? That's right, the Blue one. In Angry Birds, colors are heavily ingrained to the looks, nature and personality of each character. Not to mention the different themes and backgrounds. Do not mess around with the colors. Everybody knows the Red Bird, and at this point everybody has popped about a million green Bad Piggies. If we don't get this part right down to every single hue every time with every product, we're headed for an identity crisis. You don't want the Birds to get Angry, do you?

2.1 PRIMARY COLOR PALETTE

The five colors below form the primary color palette for Angry Birds. In order to match the Angry Birds brand identity and characters, these five colors are to be used as the main colors of all new core Angry Birds products. For example, a new product line could include five variations of a product, each variation based on a primary color, with matching characters and branding.

2.2 SECONDARY COLOR PALETTE

secondary color palette is divided into a number of different palettes, which are based on Angry Birds visual theme variations. The secondary colors are to be used for seasonal specialty products and promotional material. Use the defined secondary palettes to create consistent products with distinct look between other visual themes. Do not mix colors across different palettes

3.0 CHARACTERS

Who is the largest Angry Bird, and just how big can King Pig grow? Are the birds always simply angry, or do they show other emotions, as well? This chapter will answer these and many other questions regarding the look and expression of all Angry Birds characters.

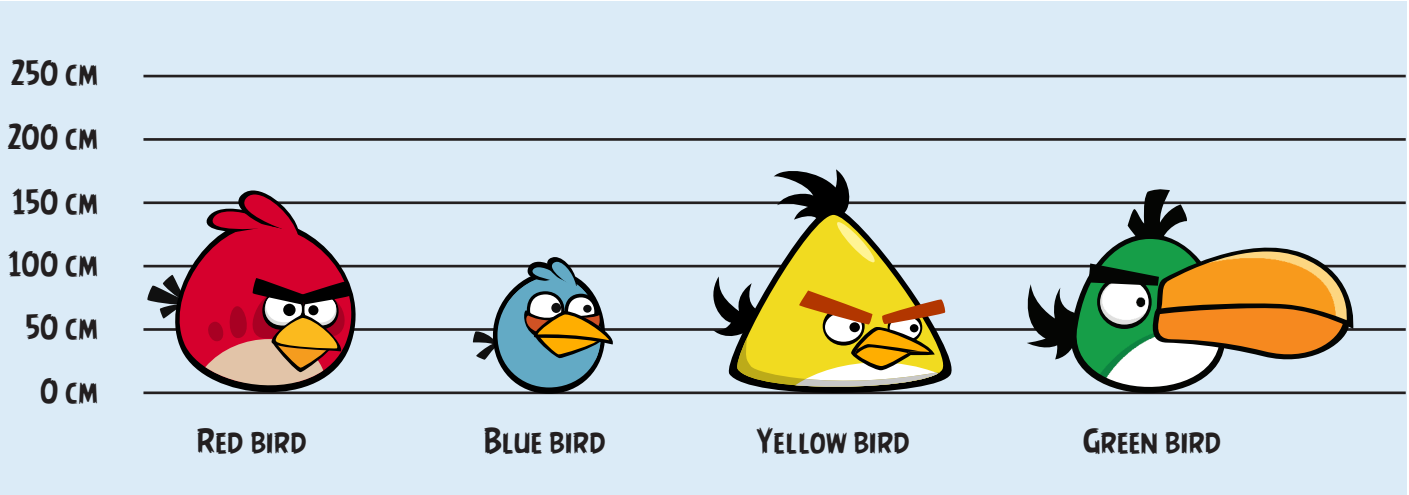

Consider this chapter your guide to identifying the different Angry Birds and Bad Piggies at a distance. You will learn about the size, scale and dimensions of each character. Check out the extensive list of bird and pig expressions, and learn how a relieved pig and a frustrated bird look like.

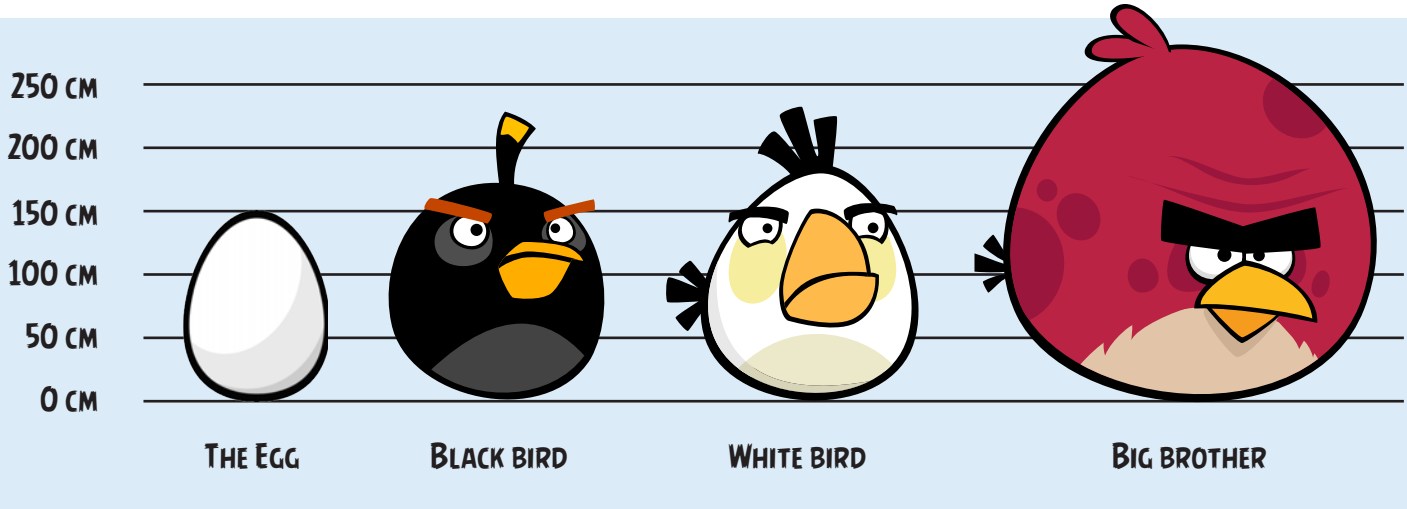

We also have examples of what works and what doesn't, when using alternative visual styles for the different characters.

3.4 Pigs expressions
3.6 Character guidelines

3.1 BIRD MEASUREMENTS

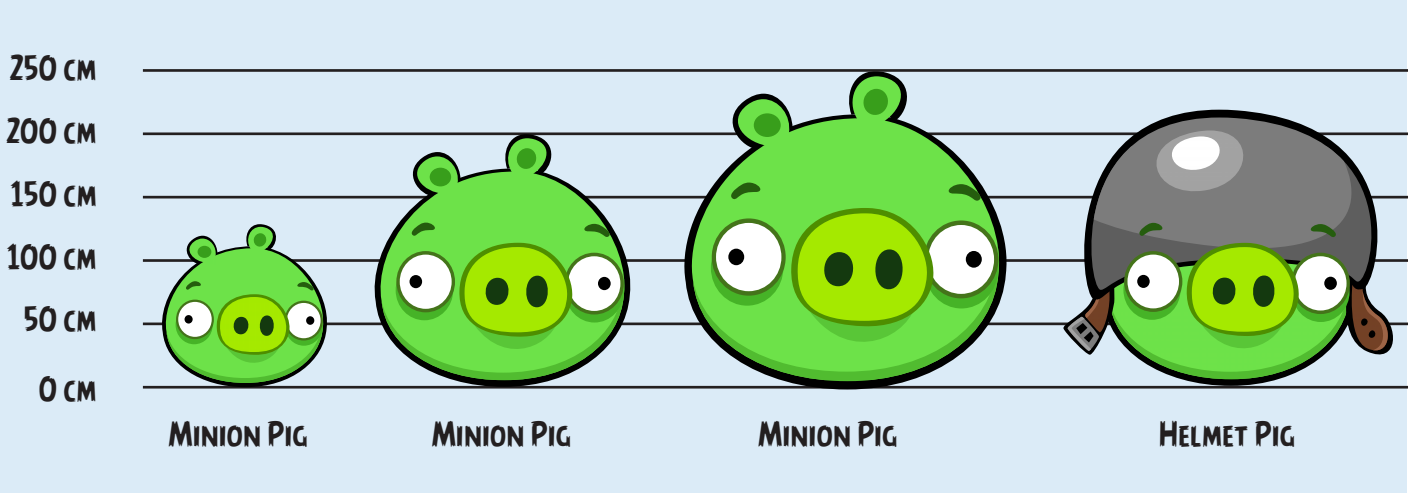

You did know that these are no ordinary finches we're dealing with, right? They may lack wings, but the Angry Birds are way bigger than your average feathered creatures. See the below chart for a scale comparison of the various Angry Birds.

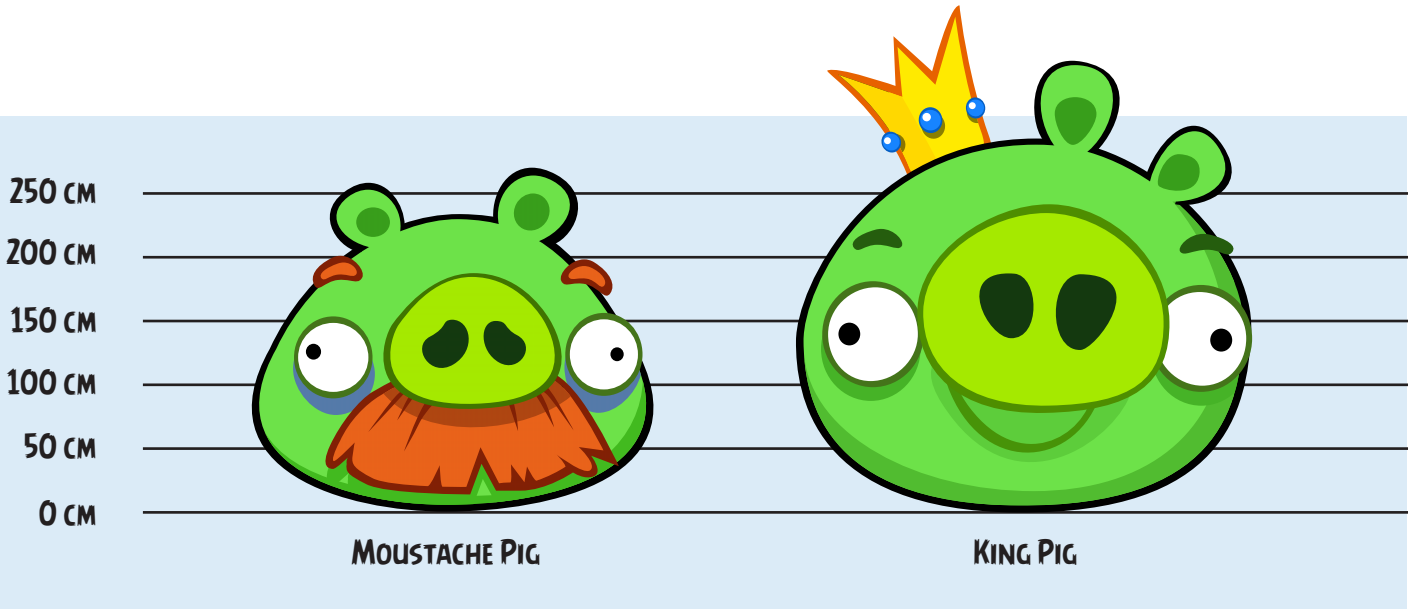

3.2 PIG MEASUREMENTS

The Bad Piggies have a straightforward hierarchy: bigger is better. The larger the pig, the higher their status, and the pig with the most remarkable girth is crowned King Pig. See the below chart for a scale comparison of the different Bad Piggies.

3.3 CHARACTER EXPRESSIONS

This section illustrates the approved expressions for all Angry Birds characters. Use these expressions for all designs unchanged. Combine characters with different expressions in a logical fashion. You can mix and match various expressions to create different situations from the Angry Birds games, for example.

- Always use these approved expressions unchanged for all print designs and other applications
- Always try to combine different character expressions in a way that they make sense in the context of the Angry Birds world

3.4 Character design variations

This section illustrates variations of the visual design for Angry Birds characters. There are four main illustration styles: standard, outline, color only, and face. Never use extra outlines, such as a white outline in addition to the black outline of the standard designs. The only exception to this is the Black Bird, which has a grey outline when placed on black background.
Not all variations work with all designs. For example, a detailed outline only variation of Big Brother results in an unattractive design. Stick to what works: clear, elegant and functional designs.

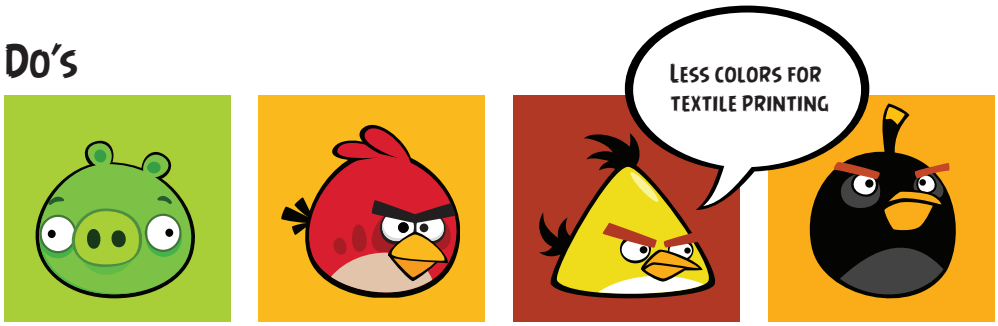

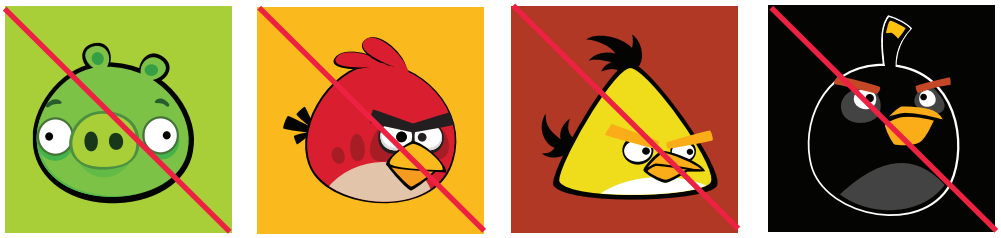

Standard design

- The standard designs should be used for most product applications.
- When designing products in the standard style, use the approved expressions and views as illustrated in the previous sections.
- Less color can be used for textile printing. For example, some of the secondary shading areas can be dropped – see the examples below.

Do's

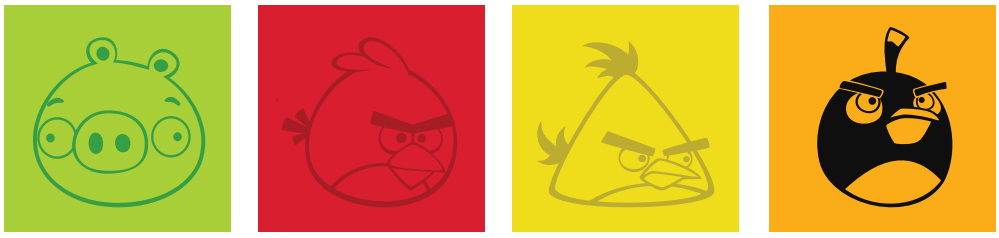

Dont's

Outline only

- Outline only designs work best for textures.
- Use consideration with the outline designs to avoid messy end results.
- Use only dark outline on a lighter background.

Do's

Dont's

Color designs

- Using the color only designs with no outline results in a softer visual look.
- Consider using the color only designs for children's clothing, for example.

Do's

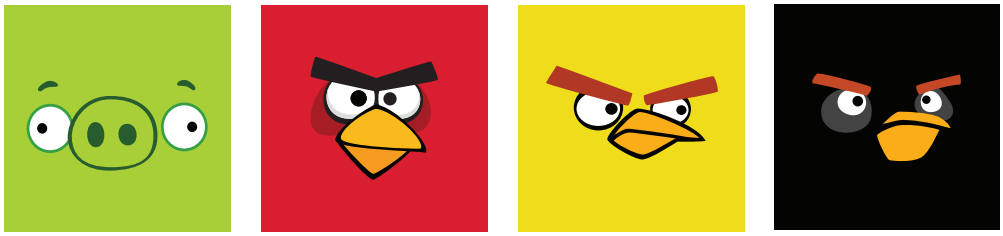

Dont's

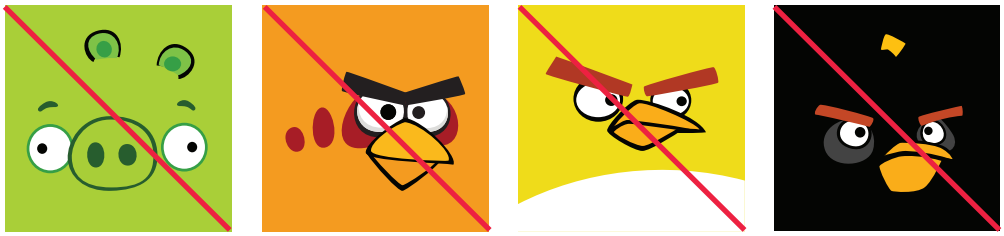

Face design

- All face designs should only include the main facial features of an expression.
- For example, an efficient Red Bird face design should use just the beak, eyes and brow of the Red Bird on a full red background.
- Always use just the main distinctive features of each character – do not include the plume, tail feathers or any accessories around the main facial features.

4.0 TYPOGRAPHY

Welcome to the Typography chapter! This chapter gives you an overview of the Angry Birds fonts and how to use them. We will look at the various headline and product info considerations, as well as how to lay out body copy and captions that are easy on the eye. After the introductions, we get technical and look at the nitty-gritty of some typesetting measurements and values. Finally, we have some real life examples of products and packaging of various shapes and sizes for your consideration, to help you find your way around Angry Birds typography. Have fun, and kern carefully!

4.3 BODY COPY

The standard size and leading for Angry Birds body copy is 9/11. Thesize of body copy can be increased in printed materials if needed, but it should be no bigger than 11/13,2. Between each paragraph there should be one extra line of space before the next paragraph. This is instead of using indents. It is always set in flushed left, ragged right. Keep hyphenation to an absolute minimum, and adjust the tracking so that the right edge of each paragraph is as neat as possible with nice rags. The correct representation of leading (or line spacing) within body copy is the key. Too much leading can create a page that looks 'loose' and under-designed, while too little results in a page of 'heavy' or dense appearance –either way is wrong and results in copy that is difficult to read.

4.4 CAPTIONS AND PRODUCT INFO

The standard size and leading for Angry Birds captions is 7,5/9. When used for captions and product listings, a smaller type size than the regular body copy size should be used, to distinguish the difference between the two. One-column paragraphs are used for contents, product listings and captions.

4.5 TYPOGRAPHIC SETTINGS

This section describes the settings used for working with the Angry Birds styles. Use the Paragraph Styles function in Adobe InDesign to apply these measurements. These settings are very important for achieving consistency in the look of the brand. Angry Birds headlines require tight kerning, which means alterations may have to be done manually to obtain the best possible result. Inserted (negative) text should have increased tracking with +5, due to optical effects and printing quality. The Angry Birds Medium diagram applies to Angry Birds text Regular.

ANGRY BIRDS HEADLINE LEADING IS SET TO 50/55 PT.

5.0 GRID SYSTEM

This Chapter explains the use of a grid system for designing layouts for Angry Birds products of different shapes and sizes. Using a grid system when laying out packaging, brochures, product sleeves, and so forth is not only a good idea - it's a great idea! By using the 8x8 grid system illustrated in the following sections, you can create consistent layouts that look sharp, have the right proportions, and, most importantly, stay true to the Angry Birds brand.

5.1 Grid sysytem
5.2 Grid system in use

5.1 GRID SYSTEM

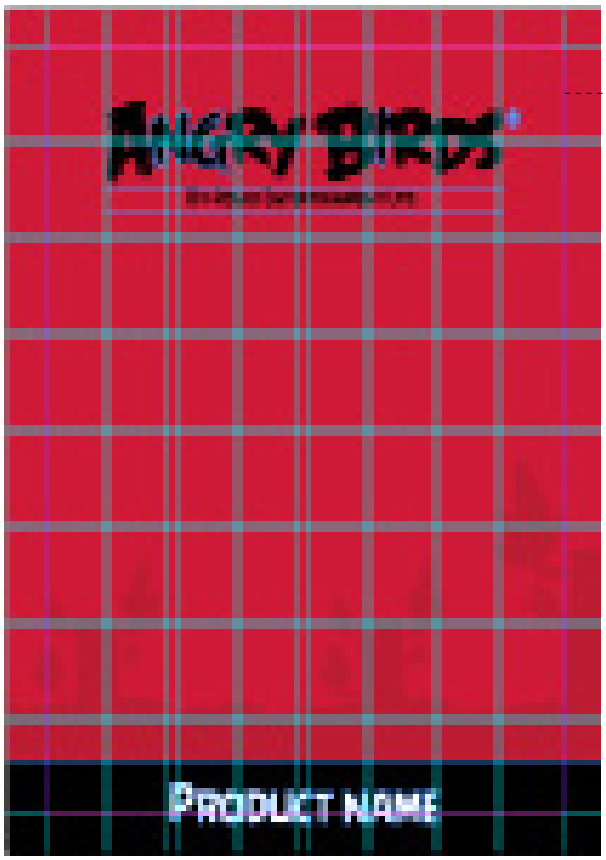

Grid System

Size: 210 x 297 mm
Outer margins: 10 mm
Inner margins: 10 mm
Columns: 8
Rows: 8
Gutter width: 4 mm

Application	Application measurements	Grid system	Gutter width	Margins
70 x 100	700 x 1000 mm	8 x 8	8 mm	35 x 35 mm
50 x 70	500 x 700 mm	8 x 8	8 mm	30 x 30 mm
A3	297 x 420 mm	8 x 8	5 mm	15 x 15 mm
A4	210 x 297 mm	8 x 8	4 mm	12 x 12 mm
A5	148 x 210 mm	8 x 8	2 mm	10 x 10 mm

5.2 USING GRIDS

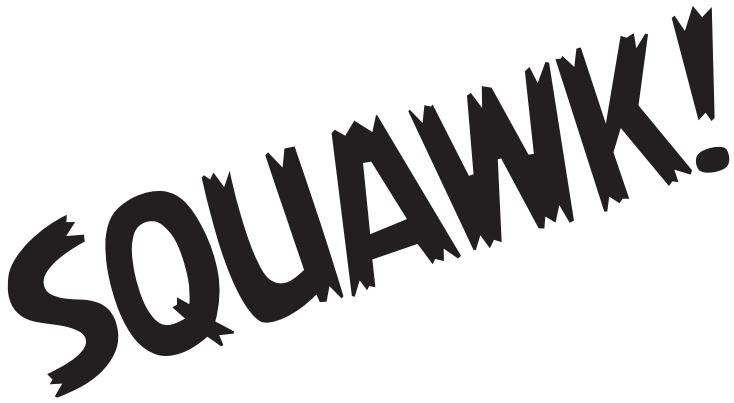

The grid system is not intended to restrict design, but to guide the logos, headlines and other design elements to their correct place. Furthermore, by following the grid system, you can instantly place all elements in the right proportions. Check out the specifications and examples below. When you created Angry Birds product designs that comply to the suggested 8x8 grid nicely, you can scale up the designs to various print sizes easily. Squawking handy, isn't it?

6.0 TONE OF VOICE

The Angry Birds brand language is never complicated. It has a refreshing straightforwardness that's quick and satisfying like the game itself. PUNS are FUN, and simple and clever wordplay should be always the Angry Birds signature.

The language of Angry Birds reflects the character of the brand – playful, simple and accessible, and free to express an attitude.

6.1 Angry Birds font
6.2 Headlines
6.3 Body copy
6.4 Captions and product info
6.5 Typographic settings
6.6 Typographic examples

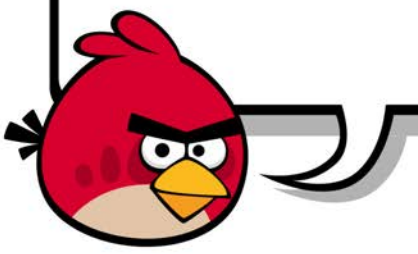

6.1 TONE OF VOICE

ANGRY BIRDS BRAND LANGUAGE IS:

SIMPLE & HUMAN CLEVER
HUMOROUS
WITTY
PLAYFUL
FRIENDLY

ANGRY BIRDS BRAND LANGUAGE IS NOT:

TOO WORDY
COMPLICATED
OVERLY INTELLECTUAL OR ACADEMIC
WEIRD FOR THE SAKE OF BEING WEIRD
CORNY
FUNNY
PLEASING OR PATRONIZING
INSULTING

6.2 SLOGANS

Bird is the word! The characters and themes of Angry Birds are great fodder for fun and creative slogans. When creating slogans for products and designs, remember the tone of voice. Some characters are easier to work with: for example, you might come up with dozens of bombrelated puns for the Black Bird. Try to avoid the obvious, however, and come up with fresh and interesting angles. Puns and popular culture references are encouraged! Keep it simple and just witty enough, and you'll end up with entertaining, catchy, pig-popping phrases!

Examples by character:

Blue Bird:
• Triple threat

Black Bird:
• I'm the Bomb
• Boom!

White Bird:
• Drop it like it's hot

Yellow Bird:
• Yellow is never slow

Green Bird:
• Boomerang is making a
• comeback
• Reverse engineering

Pigs:
• Chillin' like a villain
• Nom nom nom
• Poppin' Piggies
• Pig-poppin' action

Puns & pop culture references:
• Do you feel lucky, pig?
• LOL

Examples:
• A is for Angry
• Nerdy Birdy
• Fowl play
• Fly guy
• Feelin' Fly

Exclamations:
• Squawk!
• Ca-caw!

Bad Language:
There's quite a few classic bird-related puns out there, many of them properly chuckle-worthy. However, an Angry Birds T-shirt with the slogan "NICE TITS" plastered on it, is generally a bad idea. Remember, Angry Birds is playful fun for all ages. Avoid adult references, profanity, alcohol & drug references, and obvious references to gambling. It's OK to have some edge in your copywriting and slogans, but try to be clever instead of obscene.

7.0 MERCHANDISING & LICENSING

7.1 Lisencing
7.2 Product example
7.3 Co-branding
7.4 Labeling
7.5 Hang-tags
7.6 Packaging

7.1 LICENSING

High standards equal long-term success. By carefully controlling the design of all Rovio and Angry Birds properties and the licensed products on which they appear, we ensure that they will continue to attract consumer interest and appeal. Therefore, all uses of Angry Birds character likenesses and names must be approved prior to the production and sale of any product designed by licensees. Additionally, all packaging, advertising, in-store promotions, catalogs, brochures, web sites, etc. using Angry Birds characters must receive written approval from Rovio Licensing prior to production and distribution.

1. Design Approval

All the designs have to be approved by Rovio's design approval team. T his happens by sending the designs to the email address provided by Rovio Licensing department. You will receive the written comments about the designs through the same email system. The design has to be approved in writing before continuing further.

2. Pre-Production Sample Approval

After the designs have been approved, the approval team needs to see the pre-production sample of the product to be able to evaluate the quality, the materials used, and so forth. You will receive written comments about the sample through the approvals email system. Please wait for the Rovio Licensing comments before continuing further.

3. Production Samples

When the pre-production sample has been approved in writing, the product can go into production. Licensees also have to send Rovio a certain amount of actual production samples prior to commercial distribution. Please remember this!

Please note!

* All the promotional materials and advertisements need to be approved through the marketing approval system.
* During the busy seasons it might take up to five days to get comments from Rovio Licensing.

7.3 CO-BRANDING

Angry Birds are the perfect fit for many exciting brand partnerships. The different characters and color options make for very flexible product collaboration opportunities. In the co-branded products and associated packaging, Angry Birds should always be emphasized ahead of the brand partner, such as the device or product manufacturer. This is a win-win situation: the cobranding communicates a high quality, reliability and value of the product, with Angry Birds providing a fun, exciting and constantly topical finish!

7.4 LABELING - LICENSEES

Many products need labels to define sizes, used materials, care instructions, or other specifications. Angry Birds labels are a stamp of authenticity, a label of high quality standards, and a badge of honor! They should always follow the given formats consistently. Check out the options and examples of different Angry Birds product labels, and instructions for using them.

7.5 HANG-TAGS

Like all product badges and labels, hangtags are some of the most visible Angry Birds product identifiers. The quality and materials used in the hangtags can be used to communicate different product categories. For example, lacquered finishes, and different detail options, such as stickers on the hangtags can be used for premium category products. More basic hangtags can be used for novelty items, but the colours and finishing of the tags must always adhere to the formats given in this section. Check out the examples and instructions below.

7.6 PACKAGING

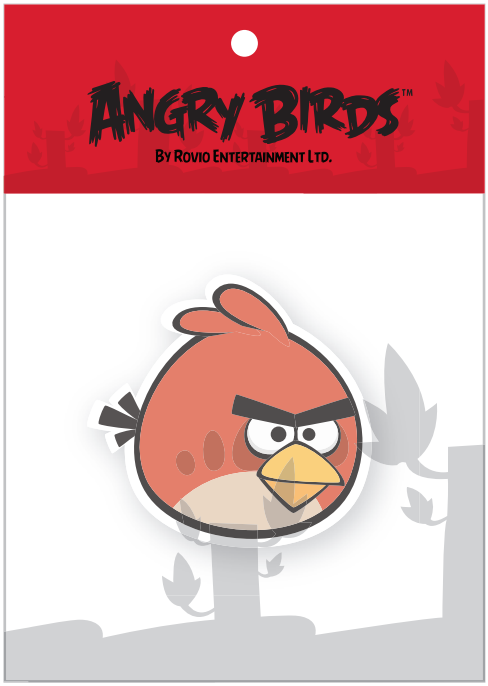

At Rovio, we care a lot about our beloved Angry Birds brand, and how the brand is presented in all aspects, from product to labels and packaging. The standard Angry Birds package design is striking, and is softened nicely by soft, earthly material choices, such as unbleached cardboard or card stock. But looks and presentation aren't everything: we consider the environmental impact, as well. While all Angry Birds product packaging must follow the visual guidelines, we also aim to minimize waste in everything we do. Eco-friendly, recycled and reusable materials rock. Reusable can mean that either the package material is entirely recyclable, or the packaging serves other purposes, such as a resealable holding bag, or a container.
